BUILDING YOUR SYSTEM

Build your own system by choosing components from the table listings. First choose type of controller; then the water meter size based on you maximum flow rate in GPM.

Blend tanks are sized according to water flow rate; use p/n 07525 for flows up to 200 GPM; use p/n 07633 for flows up to 1200 GPM.

Choose for each chemical solution, the size and number of pumpers needed by using the following formula: Peak Water Flow x 3.154 = maximum ratio of one H4 pumper(1). If the answer is smaller than your required ratio, then only one H4 pumper is needed. If the answer is larger, divide (1) by your ratio and round up to the next larger integer.

Select manifolds for this number. If (1) divided by your ratio is smaller than 0.5, use a P2 or A20 pumper. If it is less than 0.25 use a P1 or A10 pumper, and if less than 0.075 use an A3 pumper.
